To Whom It May Concern:

The prairie dog control we did last fall appears to have been very successful. None of the five areas we treated showed any signs of activity during a recent visit. There is one small area that we did not treat last fall and that may have 50 to 100 active burrows. The cost to treat this area shall not exceed $450.00 and would likely be far less.

This small area is not likely to grow much over the summer and could be treated in the fall if you wish to wait.

There is another, larger area of activity that we have not treated in recent years. There are 1000 to 1500 burrows to the northwest of the RV storage area. This colony is far from the homes at Pelican Lakes Ranch and has not been a priority in the past. However, the neighboring farm/ranch (Coyote Ridge Ranch, owner Jane Cornelius) had us treat the northern half of this colony late last fall. It would be far better for you both to have the Beebe Draw Farm portion treated as well. The cost to fumigate this colony would likely fall between $2950.00 and $4325.00.
